Show Notes, Episode 55: The Black Hole of Urgency

For many of us, our goals – our dreams – of leadership revolve around helping others:

- By helping them gain skills,
- By aligning systems so their work is easier and less frustrating,
- By increasing opportunities,
- And by building powerful collegial relationships.

But those goals, dreams, intentions, slip away from us as we get sucked into the pull of the urgent.

You are working harder trying to manage your time and be more efficient, but it's not working because time and efficiency are not the problem!

Notables

On September 22, from 7-8:30 EDT, I will take you on a space trip that will lead us out of the black hole of urgency.

In 90 minutes:

- You will understand how the gravitational pull of gravity really works, which will allow you to use more effective strategies to escape it.
- You will think differently, which will allow you to invest more energy into what you care about.
- You will learn five strategies, which will help you achieve more by doing less.
- You will learn one proactive practice, which will help you grow the people around you.

This webinar is FREE to Quadrant2 subscribers.
